

Data Resiliency from CoreSite and STN

Integrate STN's data management, backup and business continuity solutions into your CoreSite data center deployment to help you quickly and cost-effectively recover in the event of an attack

Data resiliency – the ability to be able to bounce back rapidly after an attack – is becoming top of mind for enterprises of all sizes, across all industries. It's challenging but minimizing information risk and ensuring business continuity can be achieved with the right combination of data management and colocation services. Fact is the cloud alone can't offer the same degree of assurance that a "resilience-in-depth" strategy offers.

CoreSite and STN's strategic partnership enables organizations to ensure management of their entire data lifecycle, from on-premises to long-term archival, leveraging a team of experts executing everything from backup/storage to disaster recovery. CoreSite data centers provide the low-latency interconnection, scalability and direct cloud onramps you need to monetize and future-proof your business. STN simplifies protecting the assets and information that set you apart from competitors.
